This commitment is demonstrated by practicing non-discriminatory actions in all employment decisions and by implementing policies, procedures and programs that prohibit discrimination, harassment, and retaliation.

IV. Prohibited Behaviors

A. Discrimination and Harassment

Discrimination and harassment, includes but is not limited to, the following behaviors that are based on an employee's protected class status (As defined under Definitions on page 2):

1. Conduct that imposes conditions on any element of a person's employment unless otherwise permitted or required by applicable law.

B. Retaliation

It is a violation of the Anti-Discrimination, Harassment, and Retaliation Policy to retaliate against any individual for initiating or participating in an investigation of a bona fide discrimination, harassment, or retaliation complaint. Retaliation includes, but is not limited to, any adverse treatment that is reasonably likely to deter the complainant or others from reporting discrimination and/or harassment or participating in a discrimination and/or harassment investigation.

Retaliation may also take the form of imposing adverse job consequences on an employee because of his or her refusal to submit to the unlawful requests and/or demands of a supervisor. Acts of retaliation may be overt or covert and may take many forms including verbal, written, graphic, electronic, or physical. Specific examples include:

1. Open hostility to the employee or witnesses;

In addition, other employees (e.g. the subject, witnesses, etc.) who knowingly provide false information are subject to disciplinary action including suspension and/or discharge from employment from the City of Minneapolis.

D. Breaches of Confidentiality

All participants in the discrimination, harassment, and/or retaliation complaint investigation process described below, including the person making the complaint, the subject of the complaint, witnesses and any other parties, shall respect the confidentiality of the proceedings. Employees are required to cooperate fully in any investigation undertaken by the City. Once the investigation has been completed, a determination regarding the alleged discrimination, harassment or retaliation will be made, and appropriate action will be taken at the conclusion of such investigations. Employees may also complain of conduct that they believe violates other City of Minneapolis or department policies, including issues of respect, workplace behavior, or misconduct that is not predicated upon an employee's protected class status. A4 above, which includes but is not limited to a supervisor, a manager, the Human Resource Generalist assigned to that Department, or to the City of Minneapolis' Ethics Report Line or "hotline" by calling 1-877-563-1075, or online at:

IX. Religious Expression and Exercise in the Workplace

A. Introduction

The procedures outlined below provide guidance to Department Leadership (As defined under Definitions on page 2) and employees regarding religious exercise and expression in the workplace.

These procedures cannot anticipate every conceivable situation that may occur involving religious expression in the workplace. In each instance, the facts should be reviewed on a case-by-case basis. Department Leadership should consult the Department of Human Resources for assistance in interpreting and applying these procedures.

B. Workplace Behavior

1. Except where it would interfere with the efficient delivery of public services, or where expression intrudes upon the legitimate rights of other employees, or for positions subject to uniform dress requirements, or where the expression creates the appearance, to a reasonable observer, of an endorsement by City government of religion, City employees shall not be restricted from religious exercise or expression.
2. Employees will be allowed to engage in private religious expression in their personal work areas, not open to the public, to the same extent as they may engage in non-religious expression.
3. Employees are free to engage in religious expression and conversations with their co-workers, but all employees are expected to be sensitive to the beliefs or non-beliefs of others. Therefore, such expression may be restricted if it interferes with workplace efficiency. Employees who seek to proselytize in the workplace shall cease doing so with respect to any individual who indicates that the communications are unwelcome.
4. In areas regularly accessible to the public, employees should refrain from religious expression or exercise that creates an impression, to a reasonable observer, that the City is sponsoring, endorsing, or inhibiting religion generally, or disfavoring a particular religion.
5. Employees may wear personal religious jewelry, unless circumstances require a ban on similar non-religious jewelry.
6. Employees may display religious art or literature in their personal work areas that are not normally accessible to the public to the same extent as non-religious art and literature, so long as the viewing public would not interpret the display of such items as an endorsement or favoring of religion by the City.

7. Department Leadership may not, explicitly or implicitly, require employees to participate in any religious activity. Department Leadership may not require employees to refrain from participating in religious activity outside the workplace, except to the extent those otherwise neutral, legal restrictions apply to off-duty employee conduct and expression in general. However, members of Department Leadership have the right to religious expression that is not coercive, and is understood to be their personal view, to the same extent as they are entitled to other constitutionally protected expression.
8. Employees shall not be subjected to discrimination, intimidation, ridicule, or insult because of their religious beliefs, or lack thereof.
9. Employees must direct requests for time off for religious observances to their immediate supervisor. Minn. Statute sec. 15A.22 states: "Any employee of the state, its political subdivisions, or a municipality therein who observes a religious holiday on days which do not fall on a Sunday or a legal holiday, shall be entitled to such days off from employment for such observance. Such days off shall be taken off without pay except where the employee has accumulated annual leave, and in that case such days shall be charged against the accumulated annual leave of the employee or unless the employee is able to work an equivalent number of days at some other time during the fiscal year to compensate for the days lost."
10. Employees are encouraged to:
 - a. Advise Department Leadership of the nature of the conflict between their religious needs and the work rules;
 - b. Provide enough information to enable the employer to understand what accommodation is requested; and
 - c. Provide information about why the requested accommodation is necessitated by a religious practice or belief.
11. If harassment based on religion is perpetrated by a non-employee assigned by a contractor, the overseeing supervisor or other appropriate employee in the chain of command should initiate a meeting with the contractor regarding the harassment and demand that the harassment cease, that appropriate disciplinary action be taken by the contractor if it continues, and/or that a different individual be assigned by the contractor.

C. Complaint Reporting

Employees who believe they are being subjected to religious discrimination, unlawful restrictions, or other behavior in violation of these procedures should report the activity as described above in Section V. A4 – Complaint Procedures of the Anti-Discrimination, Harassment, and Retaliation Procedures.

 - iv. "Is regarded as having an impairment" means subjected to an action prohibited by law because of an actual or perceived physical, sensory or mental impairment whether or not the impairment limits or is perceived to limit a major life activity. This definition does not apply to impairments that are transitory and minor. "Transitory" means an impairment with an actual or expected duration of six (6) months or less.

- v. A “qualified individual” means the person can perform the essential job functions with or without a reasonable accommodation.
- vi. “Substantially or materially limits”: rather than defining these terms, the EEOC has issued rules of construction. Please consult the City’s ADA Coordinator.

2. Department Leadership

Department Leadership refers to a single department and includes, but is not limited to, the Department Head, Assistant or Deputy Director, Division Directors, managers, supervisors, etc. In the Police Department, Department Leadership includes, but is not limited to, sworn employees at the rank of Police Sergeant or higher and in the Fire Department sworn employees at the rank of Fire Captain or higher. This definition also includes anyone directing the work of others.

3. Essential Functions

The term “essential functions” mean the fundamental job duties of the employment position and also means the position exists to perform a function when necessary, even if the function is not used on a regular basis (e.g. the ability of a police officer to shoot a gun or a firefighter to remove a person from a burning building). The term “essential function” does not include marginal functions of the position.

4. Reasonable Accommodation

A “reasonable accommodation” is any modification or adjustment to an employer’s work environment, job, facility, or the manner or circumstances under which work is customarily performed, that enables an employee with a disability to perform the essential functions of a position or enjoy equal benefits and privileges of employment as are enjoyed by similarly situated employees without a disability. Reasonable accommodation may be necessary to apply for a job, perform job functions, or to enjoy the benefits and privileges of employment that are enjoyed by other people without disabilities. An employer is not required to accommodate an employee’s beliefs, practices, or disability if doing so would impose an undue hardship or if the proposed accommodation conflicts with another law or regulation or poses a safety risk to the employee or to others. A reasonable accommodation does not mean decreasing performance expectations or standards.

5. Undue Hardship

An undue hardship is an action that is unduly costly, extensive, substantial, or disruptive, or that would fundamentally alter the nature or operation of the City of Minneapolis.

6. Direct Threat

A “direct threat” means a significant risk to the health or safety of others that cannot be eliminated by an accommodation.

D. Procedures – Current Employees

Employees who have disabilities are encouraged to declare their disability to Human Resources when completing an employment application. This will help the City utilize the abilities and strengths of employees to the fullest and will help the City set realistic and attainable goals for the employment of disabled individuals. The submission of this information is strictly voluntary and is considered private data on the job applicant. Although the information is considered private data on the job applicant, certain Human Resources employees may have limited access to it. Supervisors need to know about potential work restrictions, accommodations and safety concerns.

1. The employee shall inform their supervisor, Human Resources Generalist, or the ADA Coordinator of the need for an accommodation to perform the essential functions of the job.

2. The supervisor, the Human Resources Generalist, or the ADA Coordinator will request verification of the employee's functional limitations to support the request. Any medical verification must be collected and maintained on separate forms and in separate, locked files. Employees will have access to medical information on a need to know basis unless the disability might require emergency treatment.
3. When a qualified employee with a disability has requested an accommodation, the employer shall, in consultation with the employee:
 - a. Review and discuss the purpose and essential functions of the particular job involved, and complete a step-by-step job analysis if necessary.
 - b. Verify the physical, sensory, or mental impairment affecting the employee's ability to perform the essential job functions.
 - c. Identify the potential accommodations and assess the effectiveness each would have in allowing the employee to perform the essential functions of the job.
 - d. Consider the accommodation that is reasonable for both the employee and the employer. While the employee's preference will be given consideration, the City of Minneapolis is free to choose among equally effective accommodations and may choose the one that is less expensive or easier to provide.
4. The ADA Coordinator will work with the employee and supervisors to obtain technical assistance, as needed.
5. The supervisor, the Human Resources Generalist, or the ADA Coordinator will provide a decision to the employee within a reasonable amount of time depending on the facts and circumstances of the case.
6. If an accommodation would cause an undue hardship on the operation of the business, or present a direct threat, then the employee, supervisor, Human Resources Generalist, and the ADA Coordinator shall work together to determine whether other accommodations may be reasonable.
7. If the employee with the disability thinks that he/she has been discriminated against on the basis of disability, the employee should contact Human Resources or the ADA Coordinator (Public Service Center, 250 South 4th Street, Room 100), who will attempt to resolve the problem internally. All active complaint files are not public and will not be released without permission from the complainant and review of the file by the City Attorney. A complaint may also be filed with fair employment practices agencies such as the Minneapolis Department of Civil Rights, the Minnesota Human Rights Department, or the EEOC.

E. Procedures – Job Applicants

1. A job applicant may choose to request an accommodation by directing the request to a Human Resources Generalist Team Member who is working on the job opening and/or the ADA Coordinator for an accommodation. The Human Resources Generalist Team Member or the ADA Coordinator will discuss the requested accommodation with the job applicant.
2. The Human Resources Generalist Team Member in consultation with the ADA Coordinator will make a decision regarding the request for accommodation and, if approved, take the necessary steps to see that the accommodation is provided.
3. If a job applicant with a disability thinks that he/she has been discriminated against on the basis of a disability, the job applicant should contact the Human Resources Generalist Team Member or the ADA Coordinator (Public Service Center, 250 South 4th Street, Room 100), who will attempt to resolve the problem internally. All active complaint files are not public and will not be released without permission from the complainant and review of the file by the City Attorney.

F. Funding Accommodations

Request for funding accommodations must be approved by Department Leadership for accommodations that do not cause an undue hardship. The City need not pay for an accommodation for a job applicant if it is available from an alternative source without cost to the employer or job applicant.

G. Procedures – Determining Undue Hardship

1. The employee or job applicant will meet with the ADA Coordinator to discuss the requested accommodation.
2. The ADA Coordinator will review possible undue hardships by considering:
 - a. The nature and cost of the accommodation in relation to the size, the financial resources, and the nature and structure of the operation; and
 - b. The impact of the accommodation on the nature or operation of the affected department and the City of Minneapolis.
3. The ADA Coordinator will provide a decision to the employee or job applicant.

H. Appeals
